

ULSTER COUNTY SOCIETY COMING

Executive Committee Accepts Mayor Canfield's Invitation To Attend Old Home Week, June 14 to 20.

The Ulster County Society of the City of New York, through its executive committee, has accepted an invitation to visit Kingston and Ulster county during the Old Home Week, commencing Monday, June 14, and ending Sunday, June 20.

The invitation was conveyed to the society by Mayor Canfield in the following communication:

Office of the Mayor,
City of Kingston, New York,
May 22nd, 1920.

Joseph Drake, Esq.,
Secretary, Ulster County Society,
in the City of New York,
115 Nassau Street,
New York City.

My Dear Secretary:

Kingston will have an Old Home Week commencing Monday, June 14th, and ending Sunday, June 20th. The annual convention of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association will be held in Kingston on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the week, with a dinner at the armory on Wednesday noon and a parade two miles in length on Thursday, June 17th. Carnival companies will exhibit during the week and there will be other attractions.

(In passing I might mention that on Sunday, June 20th, the silver jubilee anniversary of Dean John J. Rieck, will be celebrated; and, I also that all churches will be open as usual.)

The city extends an invitation to the members of the Ulster County Society now visiting the city to wander back to Ulster county and to Kingston and to participate in our Old Home Week. In that connection a public reception will be tendered to the society and its members by the city on the evening of Saturday, June 19th, at the Academy Green in the form of a block party. There will be music, dancing, general festivity and wholesome fun, with Kingstonian sociability prevailing and general "town" will be out to greet the members who exercise and display good judgment by coming. No one will be compelled to make a speech but everyone will be afforded the privilege of speaking as many times as at many places within the block he desires. Only one condition attaches, and that is, in case you mount the bandstand to read any letters of regret from distinguished members who cannot attend, the kindly greeting of applause which will be accorded you must necessarily be limited to one hour and one minute.

In all probability an automobile trip for the members can be arranged for some time on Sunday. Any other suggestions from your executive committee or the members will be cheerfully carried out if possible for execution.

Sincerely,
PALMER CANFIELD, JR.,
President.

Notices issued to members of the society state:

Doubtless many members will avail themselves of the opportunity to visit the old county. Those who cannot get away earlier in the week will go up on the day boat, leaving Broadbush street, Saturday, June 13, at 8:40 a. m., West 42nd street at 1:00 a. m., and West 129th street at 9:40. Daylight saving time. Grand season of the year for the outing and it'll do you a world of good. So make preparations to be there.

Yours for Old Ulster,
ARTHUR McCANLUND,
President.

JOSEPH DRAKE,
Secretary.

WOOD HELPED ORGANIZE FUND

Lawyer Duell, Close To General Before Break, Tells Of Meetings At Which Robert Cassatt, Ambrose Monell And Others Agreed To Find Huge Sums For Campaign.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 3.—General Leonard Wood himself was present at a meeting of New York and Philadelphia financiers held in New York city last November to "organize" the financial end of his campaign "with half a million dollars as a starter," Charles H. Duell, a lawyer of Yonkers, N. Y., who was closely associated with the Wood campaign when John T. King, Republican national committeeman from Connecticut, was its manager, testified before the senate committee investigating presidential campaign expenditures.

Duell testified a meeting of men identified with Wall street financial interests to "underwrite" the Wood campaign was held at the residence of Ambrose Monell, steel and nickel magnate, 16 East 62nd street, New York city.

Robert Cassatt, wealthy banker of Philadelphia, and son of the late Robert J. Cassatt, one time president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was present at the gathering, Duell said. Cassatt was asked to personally "underwrite" a half million dollar to start the Wood campaign. Duell added, Cassatt declined to do so, however, and Monell agreed to "raise it himself," Duell explained.

Cassatt said he "was for General Wood" but did not think he (Cassatt) was the "best man" to raise the half million dollar fund, according to Duell.

Duell said he himself had later collected $20,000 from E. E. Smithers of New York city, for the Wood fund and then he and some others met H. M. Pillsbury, the Chicago traction magnate, at luncheon in New York city and "got him to agree to help finance the Wood campaign."

"What did Monell personally raise or 'underwrite'?" Senator Spencer of Missouri asked.

"He was quite willing to underwrite $250,000," Duell answered.

"He told me of having given different sums of $25,000, but I do not know what the aggregate of his contributions were. Monell was the 'quiet collector' for General Wood and he did not discuss the money he raised much."

"It was Monell who wanted so many men to 'underwrite' a million dollar fund for General Wood, each to 'stand' for $100,000."

Duell then told of another meeting later at the Plaza Hotel, New York city, at which Monell, General Wood and Colonel Procter were present. "When $400,000 was pledged to the Wood campaign by New York financial men."

Duell said he quit the Wood campaign when the "break" between General Wood and King occurred.

Duell's testimony was interrupted by the committee recessing so its members might be in the senate while the matter of adjournment of congress was being taken up.

BIG KYSERIKE CREAMERY BURNS

The large creamery at Kysierike, along the Ontario and Western railroad, was totally destroyed by fire just before noon Tuesday. The buildings were owned by the Ontario and Western and leased by the Draves Creamery Company of Weehawken, N. J., also having a creamery at Wartburg. Nothing remains but a huge stack of ice that was in the large ice house which also burned.

This was one of the biggest milk shipping points along the Ontario and Western branch railroad, about three-quarters of a carload of milk being shipped by the dairymen of that vicinity daily. The destruction of the creamery is a bad blow to the dairymen of Kysierike and that section, as they will have no ice and will be obliged to get their milk to the car early. There is a cooperative creamery at Kerkoukoon where about fifty cans of milk are shipped daily, and only about ten cans are shipped daily from Accord.

SANITARIUM TO HAVE HOME FOR PUPIL NURSES

Archbishop Hayes Adds $10,000 to Similar Amount Raised Three Years Ago.

Archbishop Hayes of the Archdiocese of New York has presented to the Very Rev. John J. Hickey, as president of the Benedictine Sanitarium, the magnificent sum of $10,000 with which to erect a suitable home for the pupil nurses of the institution.

A campaign for that purpose three years ago resulted in a similar sum and these funds will be a very substantial aid to the equipment of this institution.

A dispensary for surgical and medical treatment of poor of the city is being seriously contemplated and will no doubt within a very short time be realized. It will be an outdoor extension of the sanitarium's activities for the poor.

ULSTER CATHOLIC COUNTY AGENT

Miss Mollie Finnerty to Have Central Office Here and Devote Self to General Work of Social Betterment.

As a direct result of the recent Catholic charities' campaign, a county agent has been placed in each of the seven counties of the diocese of New York.

To the county of Ulster has been assigned Miss Mollie Finnerty, who is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and who recently has been preparing herself for social work at the Catholic University at Washington.

She has had practical experience in after-care work among soldiers and sailors as well as among industrial workers and girls' clubs.

Miss Finnerty will establish a central office in Kingston and will be interested in all kinds of social betterment.

PRE-CONVENTION SIDE LIGHTS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, June 3.—The Republican candidate for the presidency will be nominated on the seventh ballot—if the average impression of 23 visiting politicians serve as an indication.

Hiram Johnson or Leonard Wood—whose shoulders caught the mantle of Roosevelt? Lobby chatter gives it to Wood since Colonel Roosevelt, "son of the old man," arrived here and "sat" to have his picture taken with the general.

Stretched clear across the front of the Auditorium Hotel facing Lake Michigan is the biggest election banner ever painted. In colossal red letters on a field of white appears the name of Hiram Johnson.

"He's even trying to win the Canadian vote," a wag remarked.

Republican women delegates have been invited to "Hoover House."

Presided over by Mrs. James W. Morrison, a Hooverette, who announces that "lunch on will be served at only fifty cents the plate."

It was remarked that when certain delegates shrugged shoulders over the effect of news of alleged Lowden delegate purchases in Missouri, they spoke of dark horses as possibilities rather than avowed candidates.

A formal statement issued from Hoover headquarters says Mr. Hoover will not be in Chicago before the convention "because he is so busy with other affairs."

The contests before the national committee do not afford much food for thought but considerable amusement. Many colored delegates are contesting and occasionally the hearing devolves into a regular minstrel with "Mr. Intublocutah" and "Mr. Bones" pulling the mirth strings.

John T. King, of Connecticut, is the busiest politician in Chicago. He sees and paws wows with more people during the day and most of the night than any other single man. He's out to beat Wood.

Indiana politicians are here in force and several of them are gratifying an ambition to participate in the councils of the national committee. Joseph E. Keating, friend of House Speaker, is exercising an Indiana proxy. Occasionally he leaves the room and lets Governor James P. Goodrich or some other hoosier sit in for him.

T. R. 2nd is a subject of universal interest among the pre-convention crowds. He is unknown to most of the delegates and they want to compare him with his daddy. He's helping Will H. Hays.

Colonel William Bois Thompson, one of the delegates at large, came early. He announced that the New York delegation would caucus next Monday morning.

Today is California's day. The Californian delegates arrived en masse and let Johnson and get in.

YEARNING FOR HARMONY FELT AT CHICAGO

Belief Grows That Campaign Fund Airing Leaves Less Work for Convention and That Six or Seven Ballots Will Pave Way for Compromise on Winning Candidate—Bolt Unlikely.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, June 3.—A strange veer of the political winds has set in during the past twenty-four hours and many leaders now voice the opinion that instead of the convention possibly lasting over Sunday, it may even end as early as Friday.

General Leonard Wood believes the convention will be short and some of his political supporters have expressed a similar view, while along "Presidential Row" there seems to be a new born feeling that things will not drag along in a deadlock once proceedings at the Coliseum get under way.

All sorts of reasons for this new pre-convention cross current have been put forward, but the principal one invoked is the campaign fund airing before the Kenyon committee in Washington. The senatorial investigation, it is currently believed, has already performed a considerable amount of work which, in one way or another, the convention would have otherwise had to do, thereby shortening its labors by that much.

Furthermore, it is believed here that in case it is found, after the first ballot or two, that the chances of any of the candidates have been materially damaged by the testimony of witnesses in Washington, such candidates will soon eliminate themselves from the convention or be eliminated by it.

Another of the reasons heard among politicians is that the Republicans this year, extremely desirous of not repeating the mistakes of 1912 and 1916, will strive from the outset for harmony. Some doubts are expressed that this will be at all times possible to obtain and there is still some betting that Senator Hiram Johnson will bolt the convention, while the odds that he won't.

But there is a noticeable trend towards a spirit of "let's get together" and "we're here to nominate a winner."

That very powerful influences are quietly working towards this end is admitted in all quarters, but the precise origin and direction of the movement are not clearly revealed. Party leaders are endeavoring to induce all hands to agree to "play the game" and stand or fall by the result, and afterwards to fight for the election of the ticket named by the convention.

General Wood will not bolt, however, much as he has heretofore acted contrary to orthodox methods by invading favorite son states and the like. Herbert Hoover has put himself on record as saying he will abide by the decision of his party, and a recent letter to one of his followers here confirms this understanding. Of Lowden boiling there never has been any question.

The main fight, as viewed before the convention meets, will first come between Wood, Johnson and Lowden, and though sentiment swayed with each new sun, the belief exists here today that some six or seven ballots ought to tell the tale; the first not counting, the second furnishing an idea of comparative standings, the third displaying a tendency to deadlock; fourth and fifth ditto; then consultations and a nomination of one of the above—or some compromise candidate.

So argued the "regulars" today.

Port Ewen Pot Luck Supper.

The meeting of the Daughters of Dorcas was held in the basement of the Reformed Church at Port Ewen on Wednesday evening. A large crowd was in attendance. Games were played and excellent music rendered by Miss Kathleen Maguire and Miss Grace Horvath was greatly appreciated by all. The men present certainly missed a good "pot luck" supper. Everyone departed at a late hour, after having spent a most pleasant evening and wishing for many more.

Two Unpledged Delegates.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, June 3.—The contest in the Sixth Tennessee district was settled today when Harry A. Lock, delegate of Nashville, and J. H. Austin, alternate of Antioch, withdrew their claims for seats. Thereupon the national committee voted unanimously to seat J. B. R. McCall, delegate, and T. C. Moore, alternate. Both are from Nashville and are reported to be pledged to any candidate.

DANIELS TALKS TO NAVY GRADUATES

Midshipmen Told That Initiative and Daring Will Make Naval Hero of Future—Eighteen Capital Ships Now Building.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Annapolis, Md., June 3.—Trust in God and keep our powder dry," was the advice given today by Secretary of the Navy Daniels to the graduating class of the Naval Academy.

Calling upon the youth of the navy to hold to the traditions of the navy but to display "insistence upon emancipation from the old things," the secretary said:

"If there is a next war—which God forbid, let us keep our powder dry while we trust in Him—the navy here will be the man quickest to discover and chart new and successful channels to victory, ready to throw in the discard the best weapon of the world war."

"The navy holds—and holds deservedly—higher place in the confidence of the American people than in any period of its history," the secretary said. "We have escaped the naval retrogression after the world war which fell upon the country after Appomattox," the secretary declared. "For instead of stopping the building of new craft, we are now building eighteen capital ships, which with the scout cruisers and smaller and newer designs of craft needed to round out the fleet, will give the United States the navy which Dewey said he would have by 1925."

The secretary declared the greatest achievement in naval history was the 240 mile barrage across the North Sea of an average width of 25 miles, or over 6,000 square miles, in the construction of which our navy laid 56,611 mines, expended $78,476,534 and furnished 80 ships and 70,000 officers and men in preparing, laying and sweeping the mines.

"The world can never forget its debt to naval efficiency which transported and safeguarded without loss of a single life, the 2,000,000 soldiers who gave such preponderance of fighting strength to the allies as to insure victory," the secretary said.

Road to East Windham Has Deep Ruts—Old Mountain Road Bad.

The Catskill Mail calls attention to the bad conditions of two Greene county roads which under ordinary circumstances would appeal to motorists, and says: "It is a pity that two of the most popular sight-seeing tours in Greene county should arouse the indignation of tourists by reason of bad stretches in otherwise satisfactory roads."

The stretch of road from South Durham to East Windham is described as being in very bad condition, with holes of from 12 to 15 inches in depth in some places. The Old Mountain road, which although not as bad as the Windham Mountain road, is yet in bad condition.

THERE ARE "BOOKS FOR EVERYBODY"

BECAUSE there are 60,000,000 persons in the United States today, according to estimates of the Bureau of Education, who have inadequate facilities of obtaining books, a movement has been launched which points to the time when every man, woman and child in the nation will have free access to the enormous stores of knowledge and joy contained in the printed page. Most of this large percentage of the population dwells in rural districts in which book service is almost unknown, in the distant towns, villages and hamlets unserved by any public library.

But books and libraries are found where one would least expect to find them, and they are taken to these strange places by novel and interesting means—by sleds to snow-capped mountain peaks, by pack mule to distant mining and lumber camps, by rowboat and motor boat to isolated lighthouses and lightships, by motor truck and wagon to remote sections of the country. All this is part of the project promoted by the American Library Association, designed to advance the extension of library service to the 60 per cent. of the population which has had little or no acquaintance with books.

During the war, the A. L. A. provided more than 7,000,000 volumes for the men in service at home, overseas and on the sea. This distribution, in thousands of instances, proved the formation of the habit of reading that has not ended with the close of hostilities. It revealed the great need of the nation in the matter of extended library facilities, and consequently, the A. L. A. adopted an Enlarged Program, or "Books for Everybody" movement which is designed to promote this necessary extension and the doctrine of self-education through books.

For former service men who are patients in hospitals of the United States Public Health Service, the A. L. A. is now furnishing books, not only of entertaining nature, but also many on technical subjects, that the men may have vast opportunities of studying for their future work in life while they are recovering from the effects of the war. That this chance to obtain self-education is welcomed by these men is attested by the scores of letters that have been received by the A. L. A. asking for volumes on technical subjects, ranging from farming and its kindred pursuits to the higher branches of engineering and other professions.

Because seafarers have no opportunity for utilizing library privileges, the A. L. A. is providing boxed collections of technical and fiction books for ships of the American Merchant Marine, affording the personnel opportunity for self-instruction and keeping the men contented in the long hours off duty. The lonely keepers of lighthouses and lightships are now receiving books through the service of the A. L. A., and so are men in the U. S. Coast Guards at their stations along the many miles of inland and sea coast.

Men in far-off lumber and mining camps in some states are furnished with reading through the county library system which is operating successfully in several states and for the wide extension of which the A. L. A. is working in its Enlarged Program. Sometimes mules carry the little libraries to the far off regions, sometimes sleds take them over the snowbound mountains, other times motor trucks convey them to the distant hamlet. You will find books where you least expect, and fail to find them where you may have believed them to be.

For children who are afflicted in various ways, the joy of books is provided in libraries through the story-telling hours that are growing in popularity throughout the nation. How greatly library service and books are appreciated by the youngsters is clearly indicated in the reports of librarians that nearly one-half of the number of patrons are children and that many of these are sons and daughters of parents who have come to this country from other lands.

Special libraries in industrial establishments are meeting with increased favor both by employer and employee as offering wide opportunity for self-education in the particular line of work in which the concern is engaged. The same applies to technical libraries in merchandising plants and available for the agricultural population.

There are libraries in country schoolhouses for the surrounding residents, at toll-gates, in grange halls, in private dwellings, in buildings formerly used as saloons, but, according to the American Library Association there are not enough of them. That is why the "Books for Everybody" movement has been launched and why promotion of all these varied phases of book service for all the people is being advocated strongly in the Enlarged Program. When this project, with the aid of existing library agencies, shall have been fulfilled, it will not be unusual to find books in places now considered unusual; it will be the commonplace. No place is too out of the way, too strange to receive books, according to the ideals of the Association which is working to bring the joy of the printed page to all of the 60,000,000 persons now unacquainted with it.

For all this work proposed, a fund of $2,000,000 is required and it is now being raised by librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries without recourse to an intensive drive.

RED CROSS TO FIND COMMUNITY NEEDS IF ANY

On Wednesday afternoon there was a meeting of several of the most actively interested Red Cross workers in Kingston and from the county outside the city, at the court house, called together by Red Cross Chairman John D. Schoonmaker to ascertain whether or not there is need for the United States Army to function in a military manner, with instructions issued from the highest office to those officers next lower in rank, and so on down to the individual. In times of peace the Red Cross works on the opposite basis, that of a democracy, wherein the individual need and voice have a hearing the governing body offering the machinery of organization and most efficient service to carry out the wishes of the people. That is the scheme upon which our present peace time work is to be carried out. The war has shown us that there are a multiplicity of communities such as would come under just one Red Cross Chapter. What are those needs? Are they being already met? If not can the Red Cross wisely and most efficiently meet those needs, co-operating with other philanthropic or civic bodies? Are there needs that the people do not themselves recognize? Do the people know and appreciate their own resources and present means of service sufficiently well to take the greatest advantage of the same? To be able to answer with the utmost intelligence, such questions, and others similar and then to determine what action to take in order to put into terms of service the answers gained, seemed to be the objective of the peace time work.

The Community Study, the plan for arriving at the necessary information relative to the needs and resources of a community was shown to be about as follows: A local chairman, or the present chairman of the Red Cross is chosen to head a small working committee representing the Chapter, Branches and Auxiliaries. This committee co-operating with the Red Cross Atlantic Division, and aided by a competent and trained worker from the Division will appoint local committees, which under the specialist's guidance will gather all of the facts needed, co-operating in this gathering of community evidences with other organizations already at work. After all the necessary facts are accumulated and classified the committee will report back to the Red Cross Chapter, and it will then be determined, what if any peace time work shall be undertaken by the Red Cross in each community whether small or large, under the chapter. While it will be absolutely a Red Cross undertaking it will be carried on in cooperation with all other agencies in any community engaged in any phase of community betterment.

At the beginning of the discussion as to the desirability of a scientific community study, Mrs. Warren, of the Home Department of the Farm and Home Bureau, gave a concise but photographic account of the four projects already being carried on throughout the county by the Home Bureau. They were, with the greatest interest centering in, home nursing (now being carried on in some 60 communities), the study of cloths, its making and remodeling and buying, general cooking and dietetics, and civics.

After much careful consideration and discussion it was voted that Ulster county should have a Red Cross community study, carried on under the supervision and direction, with assistance of and from the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross.

Judge Hasbrouck then moved that a committee not to exceed nine persons be appointed from representatives of the chapter, branches and auxiliaries, by the chairman of the chapter, to confer with the division and carry on the community study, and the same was carried unanimously.

It will be of interest to all to know that there are eight forms of Red Cross service, any one or all of which may be undertaken and carried on in any community. They are health service, nursing service, home service, information service, disaster service, junior service, production service, military relief service.

After extending a vote of thanks to Mr. Nicholson and Miss Wells, who helped greatly to clarify the understanding of the proposed plan, and who also came from the Atlantic division, the meeting adjourned.

HE BROUGHT HIS LOAD WITH HIM

He was staggering along Broadway, near Thomas street, Wednesday, and as he staggered he talked. His conversation was such that it shocked the ear of Officer Welch, who placed the stranger with the load of wet goods under arrest. After a night in the county bastille the stranger had recovered sufficiently to inform the world at large that he was one Frank Campbell, and that he lived in Rosendale when at home.

He also unfolded a tale of where he got or acquired his jag, and the revelation will not prove of much benefit to others who might seek to go and do likewise. Mr Campbell's statement of how and why and where he accumulated it, in brief, was to the effect that he had a friend. Said friend resides in New York city, and came to Rosendale to spend Decoration Day.

The friend brought his private stock of wet goods along. Whether it was home brew, or the kind that could be easily purchased before the eighteenth amendment to the constitution went into effect, was not stated. But anyway "the stuff sure did have one kick to it."

After disposing of the last of the private stock Mr Campbell decided a bus ride to Kingston would assist him in getting the full benefit of the forbidden fruit.

The hope Mr Campbell awakened in the breasts of many who beheld him on Broadway Wednesday that he acquired it in town proves groundless.

This morning Mr Campbell, minus the load was arraigned before Judge Shufeldt and after explaining how it happened, was given an opportunity to return home which he gladly accepted.

BARBERS NOT TO RAISE PRICES

At a meeting of the downtown barbers held the other night, it was decided not to raise the price of shaves and hair cuts which remain at 35 cents for a hair cut and 15 cents for a shave. The meeting was called when it was learned by the downtown members of the trade that the barbers uptown were considering raising prices.

NEWBURGH ECONOMY.

Will Not Issue Bonds for Improvements That Can be Deferred.

Until financial, labor and material conditions improve, Newburgh will defer public improvements which would require a bond issue. Proposed improvements included street paving, site for a high school and other matters. Action was deferred by the city council following a communication from City Manager McKay, who pointed out the stringency of the money market which would probably make it impossible for bonds to be sold unless they drew not less than six per cent interest, and the city could not hope to obtain more than par for them. The city manager is not desirous of leaving obligations drawing a high rate of interest for his successor to liquidate, furthermore, it would be difficult to obtain from responsible bidders a bulk bid for any work undertaken, the most that could be hoped for being a cost plus ten per cent bid. Action by the council was unanimous.

TWO MEN HURT.

Messrs. Bell and Bender Hurlied Out When Auto Hit Tree.

Both were removed to the Kingston City Hospital, and Bender left after having his injuries attended to. Mr Bell was more seriously hurt of the two, but had so far recovered this morning that he was able to leave the hospital.

AUXILIARY PLANT MOTORS ARRIVE

The big Diesel motors to be used in the auxiliary station of the Honk Falls Power Company in the old cement mill at Eddyville arrived in town over the West Shore Wednesday and will be trucked out to the plant at Eddyville for installation. The engines weigh in the neighborhood of 12 tons each and Van Etten & Hogan, who will do the trucking, have had special trucks constructed to support the heavy weight.

Since last winter a large force of men have been engaged in altering the cement plant to receive these machines and installing two large oil storage tanks. The generators to be used in the plant were completed about a month ago at the plant of the General Electric Company in Schenectady and after a thorough test were shipped to Kingston. The testing of these machines at the General Electric plant was under the direction of a former Ulster county boy who is now one of the engineers in the test department of the General Electric plant at Schenectady.

CONVENTION FUND WILL BE RAISED

Another meeting to arrange plans for the big H. V. F. A. convention to be held here this month was held at the Central Fire Station Wednesday evening, and was well attended by the members of the citizens' committee recently named by the local committee in charge of the convention.

John D. Schoonmaker, chairman of the citizens' committee, presided, and assured the local committee that the funds needed to make the convention a success, would be raised.

The amount needed, it was stated by Andrew J. Murphy, a member of the local committee, was $2,500. It was brought out that the program book to be issued by the local committee had already obtained $1,000 in advertising, and that left a balance of $1,500 to be raised.

Besides, jot it down that Camels leave no unpleasant cigarettey aftertaste nor unpleasant cigarettey odor! So many thousands of smokers enjoy Camels as they have never before enjoyed a cigarette that we pass the news on to you!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes, or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

K. OF C. HOSPITAL PROPOSAL LOSES

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Glens Falls, June 2.—Dr. John G. Coyle of New York was elected state deputy to succeed Michael J. Larkin of Rome at the closing session of the Knights of Columbus convention here Wednesday.

Francis Keaveney of Amsterdam was elected state secretary and William J. Dolan of Far Rockaway, state treasurer. John J. Crowley of Elmira and Patrick P. Meehan of Brooklyn were elected state advocate and state warden, respectively. Rochester was chosen as the convention city for 1921.

District Deputy D. F. McGillicuddy of Glens Falls was elected to head the state delegates to the national convention in New York. The other delegates are: James H. McKiernan, Albany; Martin Conroy, Brooklyn; James P. Jones, Rochester; Horatio J. Hayes, Dunkirk; Francis L. Hussey, Glen Cove and Joseph F. Toomey, New York.

William P. Larkin of New York supreme secretary of the Knights of Columbus, addressed the session when the nomination of officers was begun and the name of Dr. Coyle was mentioned for state deputy. An outburst of cheering lasting fully three minutes made the choice unanimous. Dr. Coyle is a charter member, a past grand knight of Cecil Calvert council of New York and a former district deputy.

A resolution to appropriate $500,000 for the erection of a tuberculosis hospital for members of the order was defeated after an hour and a half debate.

Judge D. V. MacNamee of Hudson led the attack on the resolution. The hospital was to have been built near Paul Smith's in the Adirondacks. The convention went on record in favor of freedom for Ireland and adopted a resolution favoring the setting aside of Columbus day as a national holiday. A resolution requesting an increase in the salary of postal employees was adopted.

In closing a vote of thanks was tendered the city for the courtesies and good fellowship shown the delegates.

STATE TAX RATE $2.69 PER $1,000

The 1930 tax rate on real and personal property in New York state, claimed to be the highest in thirty years, will be $2.69 on every $1,000 value of property. This direct increase of $1.63 a $1,000 of assessed valuation is demanded by the legislative act requiring $20,000,000 for increased salaries to school teachers. Through an additional one and one-half mills tax on real property, a total of $25,000,000 is to be raised by direct taxation.

The state tax commission Wednesday announced the 1930 rate after a meeting of the state tax equalization board. The total property assessed valuation in the state is placed at $11,999,432,000, an increase of $331,999,000 over last year. There is a decline of $60,000,000 in personal property, because of income tax provisions taking intangible property out of local assessment boards.

Add Comfort and Convenience to Your Home

The CALORIC Way
Caloric Heated Pipeless Furnace

By the simple application of nature's laws of heating and circulation of air currents the Caloric heats the whole house through only one register adding comfort and convenience with a remarkable saving of fuel.

COMFORT is very closely akin to happiness. You really can't be uncomfortable and happy at the same time.

When the north winds blow and the snow flies, what a joy and satisfaction to have your home always warm, cozy, and comfortable!

With the modern Caloric Pipeless Furnace it is now possible to have your entire home, upstairs and down—halls, bedrooms, bath—all as warm as you want them on the coldest days of winter.

A nice warm room when you roll out of bed in the early morning—warm floors all day long for the children to romp on—the boy's room warm and inviting for himself and chum—this is genuine home comfort the Caloric way.

Get a Caloric for comfort.

THE Caloric ushers in a new era of home convenience for the modern housewife. Think of having every room as warm as you want it—and only one fire to tend! And never again stoves to put up and take down!

The Caloric burns any fuel, and conserves it so efficiently that it requires firing but twice a day.

By means of the Caloric heat regulator, you control the temperature from the first floor without going into your basement.

The automatic regulator goes ever further in convenience. If you wish to rise at 6 A. M., it will turn on the heat at 5 A. M. and have your rooms as warm as toast by the time you are ready to get up.

Caloric warmth is simple as sunshine and almost as convenient.

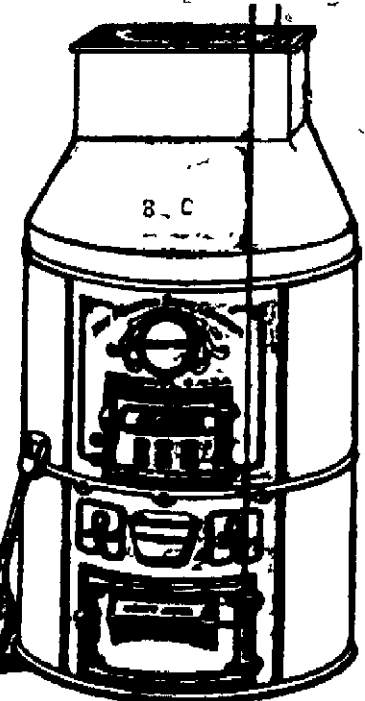

Get a Caloric for convenience.

THE Caloric saves one-third to one-half the fuel over other heating systems. This is proved by Caloric records in over 100,000 buildings.

Caloric heating is based on the laws of air circulation. As the warm air expands and rises into your rooms the cool air is withdrawn into the Caloric. This constant withdrawal of the cool air and its replacement by warm air directly from the Caloric results in a degree of heating efficiency and fuel economy impossible of attainment through any other system.

The patented and scientific construction of the Caloric so completely insulates the heat from the basement that the Caloric pours practically one hundred per cent of the heat generated directly into your rooms.

MORAN SUMMER CLASSES.

Accounting and Short Hand at Moran School.

While June examinations mark the end of the school year in our public school system, the Moran Business School, Burgevin Building, does not close during the vacation period but continues, during July and August, its classes in shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping, accounting and allied subjects. Every student attending these sessions receives personal attention from highly qualified teachers, the regular instructors being in charge, as usual, throughout the summer.

Not only does the Moran School give its students a thorough knowledge of business, but it enables them to sell and resell this knowledge at ever-increasing profits, by placing them in good business positions.

Conditions obtained at the Moran school make it especially attractive and inviting during the summer months. The school is ideally situated, with exposures on every side, admitting a plentiful supply of fresh air.

The only entrance requirement of Moran Business School is a willingness to learn. The management of the Moran School will be glad to supply full information to all interested in business education.

FINDS NEED OF BETTER SALESMEN

Shopper Recommends Many Instances of Clerks Who Drive Trade Away From City's Stores—A Garden Tour That Advanced Over Night.

Did you ever go on a shopping expedition around the city, visit a number of stores, receive the attention of several salesmen or saleswomen, and then go home and compare the treatment you had received with what you would have liked to receive, or what you would have done in the same circumstances? It is an interesting experience some times, and furnishes a most excellent reason for the usual low wages paid to the retail salesman or clerk.

For instance: I walked into one of the large groceries of the city and stopped before the canned-goods department. A clerk approaches. "Well, what do you want?" I said. "Wait a moment friend until I see what you have, and then I'll tell you. I am looking for some canned fruits." "Sure, we have lots of it," said he. "There's all kinds of soups, pork and beans—" "Wait a moment," said I. "I said I was looking for fruits—canned fruits." "O, yes, I beg your pardon. Well, we have canned corn, succotash—" "Thank you," I replied. "I'll go some place where they know something."

As I was going out I passed the bread department and said to the young lady in charge, "I would like a small loaf of bread." "Ain't got no small loaves," she answered, between chews on a stick of Wrigley's. "Well, what have you, please. I must have some bread of some kind." "We've got rye, graham and raisin," she volunteered, "but no small loaves." (chew-chew-chew)

Now I have seen girls who would say something like this: "I'm sorry, but we are entirely sold out of the small loaves. If you could use rye or graham or raisin bread, we have plenty of that—all just baked this morning." And I would have taken whatever she had and been glad to get it, for almost any one likes to be treated as if he was alive—and human, and not just a blot on the landscape.

And this store is a big store—spends a good deal of money to attract customers—and then pays more money to employees whose principal function would seem to be to drive the customers away again.

I wanted a garden implement—no matter what kind, if I told you I would come too near naming the place—and seeing one something like what I wanted I asked the young man in charge the price. He answered, "$5.75." I had just built up a garden, and I had just built up the next day. As I walked into the store, and indicating the implement I desired, I said, "That is $5.75, I believe." "No sir. It is $5.50." But you said $5.75 yesterday. I insisted, gently but firmly. "Well, that's when you ought to have bought it, then. We don't guarantee prices from one day to another." Yet there was the same implement, in the same window, but it had increased in price 75 cents overnight. And in addition to having the price raised on me arbitrarily, I was supposed to stand still and be told what I ought to do by this little red-headed snip who should have been thinking more of the interests of his employers and less of his own self importance.

Did I buy the implement? I did not, but went to another house and paid more for one, and I'd do it again too.

Just one more. During the winter I had a severe cold—just the same as everybody else. A friend of mine who had tried it, said, "Get some Hamburg Breast Tea. Take it hot—go to bed—and you'll be alright in the morning." (This is not to advertise this particular tea, but simply to illustrate a point.) I called at the nearest drug store, and said, "Please give me a package of Hamburg Breast Tea." "Sorry," said the proprietor. "We don't handle it." I tried another. After examining his stock carefully he said, "We have another make of Breast Tea, but we have no Hamburg." I tried a third place. Same result—no Hamburg Breast Tea. I called at one more place, with the usual request—"I would like a package of Hamburg Breast Tea." The young man behind the counter immediately pulled out a drawer containing an assortment of such remedies, selected a package, said "anything else," wrapped up the package and handed it to me.

I complimented him on being the only one of four large stores that had been able to furnish me what I was looking for—look the package and went home. When I opened the package to brew my tea I found that what he had given me was neither Hamburg Tea nor Breast Tea. No wonder I am now so very difficult to please and I try to have a heart when it comes to dealing with those who have a great many people to satisfy, but when I run up against so many cases of which these are only samples, I am compelled to think that employers of clerks or salesmen ought to come more closely in touch with their employees, and to impress upon them that these are three qualities without which no man or woman can ever hope to become a successful salesman—courtesy, gentility and an honest desire to serve the customer.
